Take your language studies abroad this summer!

Spanish
Students at any level can choose between programs at Universidad de Salamanca in Spain or Universidad San Ignacio de Loyola (USIL) in Cusco, Peru. Students who already have a beginning level of Spanish can participate in the faculty-led Summer Program in Spain or Spanish through Community Engagement in Costa Rica where they'll learn from UNCG professors. We also have 2 options in Chile through our affiliate, ISA (links to be updated soon!).

French
Students can choose to study at Université de Savoie in Chambéry or Jean Moulin Lyon 3 in Lyon, both in France. The Savoie program is located in the foothills of the Alps and combines classroom hours with outdoors and cultural experiences. It's available for beginner through intermediate levels. The program at Jean Moulin is located in the bustling city of Lyon--the food capital of France!--and includes a two-day trip to the Mediterranean. It's best for intermediate-advance speakers (FREN 203 +).

German
The summer program at the University of Stuttgart in Germany is great for all levels of German, even complete beginners! Students can earn 2 German credits and also elect to take an additional course in English focusing on Art, Architecture, Communication or Business.

American Sign Language
Siena School for Liberal Arts in Italy has offered a summer program in Deaf Studies since 2005. This unique program is great for SES students or who have completed SES 204, or ASL minors who have obtained level ASL IV. Taught completely in ASL, students will use their skills to explore Italian Sign Language and Deaf Culture.

Italian
The Lorenzo de Medici Institute offers Italian language classes at both of their campuses in Tuscany and Florence. Some courses include local cultural activities, and students may choose to take additional courses taught in English on a wide array of subjects that work for most majors as well as for gen. ed/MAC requirements.

Fulfill foreign language requirements during the summer while exploring the world. See your academic advisor or a study abroad advisor for details.

See studyabroad.uncg.edu for more info.
Take your language studies abroad this summer!

Chinese
The Chinese University of Hong Kong offers study in Mandarin or Cantonese during their July session. Take your classroom learning and use it as you navigate one of the world’s biggest cities!

Japanese
Students can head to Seinan Gakuin University in Japan for beginner to advanced Japanese language study. Courses include work in the classroom as well as the real world. This program incorporates off-campus field trips and projects, and even an overnight trip to a historical site.

Korean
Students wanting to study Korean in the summer have lots of options. Sogang University offers a five-week Korean immersion program with classes in the morning and activities and field trips in the afternoon. Sungkyunkwan University (SKKU) offers Korean language and Korean studies courses, while Yonsei University offers a four-week or six-week option with cultural excursions throughout the program.

Arabic
Students wanting to study Arabic can head to Morocco! Our ISA hosts a study site in Meknes (link to be updated soon!) where students can choose from intensive language study or a range of courses covering Arabic culture and International Relations.

Fulfill foreign language requirements during the summer while exploring the world. See your academic advisor or a study abroad advisor for details.

See studyabroad.uncg.edu for more info.