

Why Study Anthropology Abroad?

"While studying abroad is both fun and looks good on a resume, those reasons don't come close to justifying why students should study abroad, nor do they describe what it actually feels like to have a study abroad experience. Studying abroad is one of the most amazing experiences you will ever have!

You will learn more about yourself than you ever imagined possible. You will laugh, cry, sing, dance, play, and get tested in ways you never could have, had you not left the borders of the United States.

My advice to students who are considering studying abroad is to simply do it. It will be the most fundamentally transformative experience you will ever have."

Anthropology Major Specifics:

When is the best time to study abroad?

While every student's situation may vary, anthropology students ideally study abroad during the spring semester of their sophomore or junior year. However, finding the most appropriate program as well as the best time to go may often depend on academic background, interest areas, and pre-requisites. Begin planning your study abroad experience early.

What courses should I take abroad vs. at UNCG?

The department highly encourages students to take a variety of ATY, GEC, and elective courses while studying abroad. ATY 363: History of Anthropological Theory and ATY 595: Contemporary Issues in Anthropology must be taken at UNCG and are only offered during the fall semesters of junior and senior year, respectively. Students should keep this in mind when planning their study abroad experience. Furthermore, a methods course needs to be taken from the department (360, 361, or 362). The course, ATY 481: Study Abroad Experience for Anthropology Majors is specifically intended for study abroad options. Speak to your study abroad contact for more information. ATY options are flexible and transferrable, so students can take a wide range of elective and ATY courses and still graduate on time!

Other benefits...

Simply studying abroad in any country waives a Global marker, and depending on the program, a Global Non-Western marker. Speak to an IPC adviser for more information.

Do I Need to Speak a Foreign Language?

While studying abroad is an ideal time to complete foreign language requirements or learn a new language, most international programs offer extensive coursework in English available to exchange students.

Can I Afford It?

YES! On semester or year-long exchange programs, students pay regular UNCG tuition and fees. Housing and meal costs are typically equivalent to a semester in residence at UNCG. Any financial aid received at UNCG can be applied to the program costs. In addition, students are eligible to receive travel grants to help offset the costs of airfare. Be sure to review the budget sheet and speak to an IPC advisor.

Will I Graduate on Time?

YES! Students receive UNCG credit for classes taken abroad, so there is no need to prolong graduation — you can still graduate on time!

SOUTH AFRICA

University of Stellenbosch

US offers an impressive semester-long community engagement program. As a 9-credit course, students are able to partake in extensive field work, working directly in the rural wine farming community of Lynedoch. Students will work primarily with children in a school environment, and will gain a better understanding of poverty and bio-psycho-social issues affecting members of this community. This is a great opportunity for anthropology students wishing to gain in-depth and hands-on field experience in a fascinating context. In addition to this course, GEC and elective courses are also available at US.
